Nearly 800 Voted Here in Gen. Election

Nearly 800 ballots were cast in Appomattox County's ten precincts in Tuesday's General Election, as all Democratic nominees were elected without opposition. The vote was considered a fairly good showing in the light of lack of opposing candidates and was slightly ahead of the total vote in last year's general election.

J. H. O'Brien, commissioner of the revenue, topped the voting with a total of 738 ballots, closely followed by J. Garland Plunkett with 736 for county treasurer.

The big court house precinct here was just short of 300 votes cast.

State Senator Chas. T. Moses was re-elected to another four-year term, receiving 718 ballots in the county. Delegate John B. Boatwright received 665.

Commonwealth's Attorney George Abbitt Jr. received 692 votes, sheriff David T. Robertson 693, and the 3 unopposed candidates for supervisor, F. L. Murphy, Otho Matrin Jr. and R. M. Webb received 320, 213, and 186 votes respectively.

Interest over the state centered in a few contests for the State Senate and House of Delegates, where Republican or Independent candidates sought to win over Democrats. In most cases the Democrats won, although Ted Dalton was returned to the State Senate and gained prestige for another possible bid for the Governorship.

Polio Vaccine Available To 5-10 Age Group

Salk anti-polio vaccine doses for all children five years of age through 10 years have been received here and are available through local doctors and clinics at the Health Office, Appomattox, Dr. H. E. Jenkins, Health Director, said.

Dr. Jenkins corrected erroneous reports that only children with permission slips for the public clinics would be able to receive the vaccine, in stating that supplies are being provided community doctors. Parents wishing to secure the services through family physicians are at complete liberty to do so, Dr. Jenkins said.

The Health Department public clinics started in Appomattox on Wednesday and will continue. Vaccine supplies are available now to doctors, and Dr. Jenkins reports that local physicians will start giving the vaccine to children whose parents chose this method, immediately.

Children using the public clinics this week must have permission slips form parents, Dr. Jenkins reports. This requirement, he believes, gave rise to the false impression that only the public clinics would have the vaccine available.

"I hope our town and county parents will remember. They may elect whichever method they wish, either the clinics or family physicians, since all doctors will have supplies of the vaccine," he said.

In this county, the present age limit in the public health clinics is six through ten years. Arrangements will be made for the five-year age group to receive immunizations later. Private physicians, however, can provide the vaccine for all children in the five through ten age group.

Shop Class To Open Tues.

The Appomattox Farm Mechanics class, often called the Farm Machinery Repair Class, will begin in the vocational agriculture shop at Appomattox High School next Tuesday night, November 15. Classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 6:30 to 10:00 P. M., and will run every week through next April, except for Thanksgiving night and during Christmas week.

H. B. Pack announced that the instructors for the class this year will be Vern Torrence and R. N. Ashworth. Admittance to the class will be by membership cards which may be purchased from any of the vocational agriculture instructors for one dollar and fifty cents. This fee helps to partially defray the cost of operating the class.

These farm mechanic classes operate for the purpose of helping farmers to learn the proper use and care of all the various shop tools, and learn to make the minor repairs and adjustments necessary to keep the machinery and equipment needed on a modern farm operating properly.

Evergreen Proud of Its 39 New Telephones Now In Operation

People in the Evergreen community are happy over the new telephone service of Appomattox Telephone Company. We received the following letter today from Mrs. J. K. Hamilton, of Evergreen:

"Less than seven months ago there was only one telephone in our village, this being a public long distance phone. It was installed in the C. T. Evans store. Phone messages were delivered t roughout the entire community by the owners and employees of this store, whose services were deeply appreciated, and will not soon be forgotten.

"Today we are happy to report that in our community there are (39) thirty-nine telephones now in operation, with more yet to be installed.

"We are indeed grateful to the local Cub Creek party line, which rebuilt its line to hasten service. We are also grateful to the Appomattox Telephone Co., which not only built the line to our village, but also took over the Cub Creek division. To those civic-minded citizens who helped to make this service available, we sincerely appreciate their efforts and cooperation. Truly there is no substitute for that good old community spirit."

NO TROUBLE AT ALL

Wawnesburg, Pa.- Lawrence Mylan entered the hospital here complaining of abdominal pains. The pains were traced to a thermometer that had been lodged in Mylan's small intestines for 33 years.

Seedlings Will Be Available About Nov. 15

Word has been received from the State Forester's Office that weather permitting, the lifting of tree seedlings will start about the 15th of November. Landowners wishing to plant pine seedlings this year are urged to place their orders early. During the 1954-55 planting season many landowners were disappointed when the supply of seedlings was exhausted six weeks before the end of the regular season. A total of 15,643,000 seedlings were planted last year.

To meet the expected heavy demand for trees, our tree nurseries have increased their supply to 20 million seedlings for the 1955-56 planting season. Many applications for seedlings have already been received indicating that landowners realize the importance of planting trees on their lands.

In determining the land suitable for tree planting, consider the following types of areas:

1. Heavily cut-over timberlands.
2. Idle land that is no longer used for agricultural purposes.
3. Eroding and gullying slopes.
4. Those unproductive crop lands.

Now is the time to take stock of the needs on each individual farm. Make those idle acres produce a crop that can and will provide a cash income. Call or write the District Forester, Box 386, Farmville, Va., for further information, or see your county agent or soil conservationist.
